Typically, these are annoying, but commercially serious.

It works in partnership with ten hospitals in Shanghai that permit direct access to patient information.

(You might be surprised to know that as an organization we’re actually currently running Tendergrass Farms at a net loss – even with the current pricing)

The remaining incinerators have been required to install emission scrubbers to ensure that their emissions are cleaner and meet the new requirements.